

Make a funny Personality Profile

Personality Profiles come in all kinds - make one in the Foreign Language lesson, too.

Per child you need: a sheet in A3, possibly in a nice colour, but not too dark. If unavailable, any other paper in an appropriate size will do.
lots of different magazines for pictures to cut out scissors glue stick pen, felt tips or any other crayons

Here are some ideas. According to your curriculum and language material, you can always change them easily. To practise the language properly, have the pupils write complete sentences. At the end, decorate the posters and display them for some time. You will have lots of fun.

your first name	unhappy about nickname	funniest experience birthday	oldest thing in your room time when you get up for school	yuckiest food best / worst colour	farthest trip favourite ice-cream	oddest household job best free time activity	most frightening film book by your bedside	animal you want to be good at	I wish I could afraid of
