

If more rabbits were born in a habitat,
how might this affect other wildlife living there?

