

Queen Victoria

Queen Victoria was born on the 24th of May 1819 at _____, London. Her mother was Princess Victoria of Saxe-Coburg-Saalfeld (Duchess of Kent), and her father was Edward, Duke of Kent. Her childhood was unhappy. Victoria's father died when she was only eight months old. Her mother and a servant named John Conroy were very strict and would not let her spend time alone.

At home, she spoke _____, and she also learned English and French. Her governess taught her at home, and she loved drawing and painting. When her uncle, King William IV, died in June 1837, Victoria became the queen. She was eighteen years old. She moved to Buckingham Palace and kept away from her mother. Victoria was helped to rule by the Prime Minister, _____.

Her _____ on the 28th of June _____ attracted huge crowds. A new _____ had to be made for Victoria as the crowns used by her uncles were too heavy for her. After the very long ceremony, the theatres were free. Fireworks and parties took place all over London.

Victoria married her cousin, _____ of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha, in 1840. As she was the queen, Victoria had to ask him to marry her! The marriage was happy, and the couple had _____ children. Albert helped Victoria with her royal duties. In 1857, he was awarded the title of _____. Albert died when he was 42. The Queen was distraught and hid herself away. She stayed at home for three years. Although she began to go out after that, she mostly stayed away from London. She wore black for the rest of her life.

In 1867, Victoria celebrated her Diamond _____. She had been queen for 60 years. Huge parties and events were held all over the Empire. Victoria died at Osborne House on the Isle of Wight on the 22nd of January 1901. She was 81. There was a state _____ in St George's Chapel in Windsor Castle. After that she was buried in a mausoleum at Frogmore, Windsor.

Victoria was queen for _____. Only Queen Elizabeth II was queen for longer. Her eldest son, Albert Edward, became King Edward VII after her death. During her long reign, there were many changes in Britain. The country became the most powerful in the world, ruling many other countries.

Fill in the blank spaces in the text using the words below.

1838	Prince Albert
Prince Consort	Kensington Palace
funeral	nine
German	Jubilee
coronation	Lord Melbourne
crown	63 years

Queen Victoria

Queen Victoria was born on the 24th of May 1819 at Kensington Palace, London. Her mother was Princess Victoria of Saxe-Coburg-Saalfeld (Duchess of Kent), and her father was Edward, Duke of Kent. Her childhood was unhappy. Victoria's father died when she was only eight months old. Her mother and a servant named John Conroy were very strict and would not let her spend time alone.

At home, she spoke German, and she also learned English and French. Her governess taught her at home, and she loved drawing and painting. When her uncle, King William IV, died in June 1837, Victoria became the queen. She was eighteen years old. She moved to Buckingham Palace and kept away from her mother. Victoria was helped to rule by the Prime Minister, Lord Melbourne.

Her coronation on the 28th of June 1838 attracted huge crowds. A new crown had to be made for Victoria as the crowns used by her uncles were too heavy for her. After the very long ceremony, the theatres were free. Fireworks and parties took place all over London.

Victoria married her cousin, Prince Albert of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha, in 1840. As she was the queen, Victoria had to ask him to marry her! The marriage was happy, and the couple had nine children. Albert helped Victoria with her royal duties. In 1857, he was awarded the title of Prince Consort. Albert died when he was 42. The Queen was distraught and hid herself away. She stayed at home for three years. Although she began to go out after that, she mostly stayed away from London. She wore black for the rest of her life.

In 1867, Victoria celebrated her Diamond Jubilee. She had been queen for 60 years. Huge parties and events were held all over the Empire. Victoria died at Osborne House on the Isle of Wight on the 22nd of January 1901. She was 81. There was a state funeral in St George's Chapel in Windsor Castle. After that she was buried in a mausoleum at Frogmore, Windsor.

Victoria was queen for 63 years. Only Queen Elizabeth II was queen for longer. Her eldest son, Albert Edward, became King Edward VII after her death. During her long reign, there were many changes in Britain. The country became the most powerful in the world, ruling many other countries.

Fill in the blank spaces in the text using the words below.

1838	Prince Albert
Prince Consort	Kensington Palace
funeral	nine
German	Jubilee
coronation	Lord Melbourne
crown	63 years

